Overview

Maven has acquired Naytal, based in the UK, and provides on-demand access to women's and family health experts to support a broad range of reproductive healthcare needs. The acquisition will enhance Maven's ability to serve its growing membership in the UK, which is currently Maven's largest market outside of the U.S. The company currently has members in 175 countries with more than 70 regional employees.

Maven has partnered with Amazon to offer employees fertility and family planning services. Through this partnership, Amazon employees and their partners in select countries will have access to all services Maven provides, including board-certified reproductive endocrinologists and OB-GYNs, nutritionists, and mental healthcare providers. Maven has 15 million lives under management. Amazon will join Microsoft, AT&T, Snap, SoFi, and L'Oreal as companies with partnerships with Maven.
